

CONTENTS

JULY | AUGUST 2010

THE BAD GUYS ISSUE

WHO'S TO BLAME FOR FAILED STATES

76 | The 2010 Failed States Index

78 | Reality Check How bad are they?

80 | In the Beginning, There Was Somalia
Two decades later, the United States still has no plan. By James Traub

83 | Mogadishu Was a Blast
By Alex Strick van Linschoten and Felix Kuehn

84 | Watch List Four countries in big trouble.

86 | Prime Numbers: The Pirate Den
By Bridget Coggins

88 | Why Bad Guys Matter
They put the failed in failed states.
By Paul Collier

90 | The Worst of the Worst
Bad dude dictators and general coconut heads. By George B.N. Ayittey

92 | Three Tyrants Things are just what they seem in the Central African Republic. By Graeme Wood / Inside Eritrea's open-air prison. By Nathaniel Myers / The twilight of Chad's paranoid autocrat. By Opheera McDoom

98 | The United Nations Where bad guys don't fear to tread. By Jeffrey Herbst / The U.N. is us, and we are it. By Roméo Dallaire / The chicken factor. By Peter W. Galbraith

100 | Beijing's Coalition of the Willing For the West, failed states are a problem. For China, they're an opportunity. By Stefan Halper

102 | La Vie en %! Why is France still propping up Africa's dictators?
By Boubacar Boris Diop

104 | Who Else Is to Blame? By Mo Ibrahim, Paul Wolfowitz, Sen. Benjamin L. Cardin, Bruce Babbitt, Raymond C. Offenheiser, and Robert D. Kaplan

ON THE COVER, left to right: North Korea's Kim Jong Il, the Central African Republic's François Bozizé, Zimbabwe's Robert Mugabe, Burma's Than Shwe, and Sudan's Omar Hassan al-Bashir

PHOTO COMPOSITE BY WIND-UP DIGITAL