

Forbes

22

SILENT STAN

STAN KROENKE, THE WORLD'S BIGGEST SPORTS MOGUL

With his purchase of legendary English soccer team Arsenal, Kroenke adds to his vast empire. He owns U.S. football, basketball and hockey teams.

BY PARMY OLSON

90

THE WORLD'S BEST COMPANIES FINDING OPPORTUNITIES IN MEGACITIES AROUND THE GLOBE

Siemens Chief Peter Löscher is betting on explosive growth in cities where people are flocking in huge numbers. Even shantytowns need electricity.

BY DANIEL FISHER

68

FEMME FATALE

THE VERY UNCONVENTIONAL STORY OF LYNN TILTON

The private equity boss claims to have turned $10 million into billions in a decade. Really? Our effort at finding the truth started on the Web.

BY FORBES STAFFERS

15 | FACT & COMMENT // Steve Forbes

18 | CURRENT EVENTS // Lee Kuan Yew

20 | CAPITAL FLOWS // Chip Mellor and Clark Neily

FOCUS

23 | ROYAL IN-LAWS

If the Middletons are curious, here's what the Queen of England is worth.
BY CRISTINA VON ZEPPELIN AND LUISA KROLL

24 | THIS SPACE FOR RENT

Filmmaker Morgan Spurlock on product placement.
BY JEFF BERCOVICI

26 | THE NEXT MICHAEL MILKEN?

Lou Kerner wants to be the go-to guy for private stock sales.
BY MAUREEN FARRELL

28 | SELLING THE APOCALYPSE

Want to buy a used bunker—nicely appointed?
BY CLARE O'CONNOR

28 | THE BIGGEST LOSER

Once Ireland's richest person, Sean Quinn is now its most indebted.
BY CHRISTOPHER MATTHEWS

COVER PHOTOGRAPH BY ULRIK JANTZEN / GETTY IMAGES FOR FORBES

30 | CAN AFRICA PRODUCE A FACEBOOK?

A conversation from Forbes.com.

BY MFONOBONG NSEHE

32 | INNOVATION RULES // Rich Karlgaard

TECHNOLOGY

34 | THE BIRTH OF CHINA COOL

Frog Design is bringing Western innovation to Chinese tech giants.

BY ELIZABETH WOYKE

38 | FOR MIPS, LESS IS MORE

A scrappy firm with power-thrifty chips is back on the scene again.

BY BRIAN CAULFIELD

40 | CRYPTO CURRENCY

Money you can't trace.

BY ANDY GREENBERG

INVESTING

44 | INVESTING INSOMNIACS

Forget day trading. The latest action is happening at night.

BY EMILY LAMBERT

48 | PORTFOLIO STRATEGY // Ken Fisher

49 | INVESTMENT STRATEGIES // William Baldwin

50 | FINANCIAL STRATEGY // A. Gary Shilling

ENTREPRENEURS

52 | TAILOR MADE

David Schottenstein's door-to-door haberdashery runs on a rare breed of sales rep.

BY HELEN COSTER

54 | SUN KING

David Levine is mapping the solar potential of every home.

BY CHRISTOPHER STEINER

LIFE

62 | SALMON ZEN

Five friends fish for Quebec's elusive prize.

BY MONTE BURKE

66 | WADE IN THE STREAM

Five of the finest pieces of fly-fishing gear ever made.

BY MONTE BURKE

THE GLOBAL 2000

80 | THE WORLD'S BIGGEST COMPANIES

The deep recovery brings optimism back.

EDITED BY SCOTT DECARLO AND BRUCE UPBIN

83 | STATS // WHO DID THE BEST
Sales, profits, assets and market value.

90 | URBAN OUTFITTER
Siemens sees big growth in emerging markets.
BY DANIEL FISHER WITH NAAZNEEN KARMALI AND GADY EPSTEIN

100 | SLUMDOG MILLIONS
There are 21 megacities of 10 million people or more. A map.
BY RAQUEL LANERI

102 | NEW LANDS OF OPPORTUNITY
Urban slums are a better bet than keeping people in rural poverty.
BY EDWARD GLAESER

114 | THE MEGASLUM
Salvation or sinkhole? A conversation.

133 | STATS // EUROPE, MIDDLE EAST & AFRICA
European firms imported their way out of the credit crisis.
BY PARMY OLSON

134 | THE ULTIMATE DRIVERLESS MACHINE
Betting on startups that help people navigate urban life.
BY JOANN MULLER

138 | STATS // UNITED STATES
Big profits away from home.
BY SCOTT DECARLO

148 | WE'RE IN A GOOD PLACE
A conversation with Intel Chief Paul Otellini.
BY ERIC SAVITZ

154 | STATS // ASIA-PACIFIC
Conglomerates on fire.
BY GADY EPSTEIN

158 | ROUGH AND READY
An Indian clan's vehicle company, Mahindra & Mahindra, picks up speed.
BY NAAZNEEN KARMALI

167 | STATS // THE AMERICAS
Laggard with bright spots.
BY KEREN BLANKFELD

170 | ALL YOU CAN EAT
The Batista family built the world's biggest meat company. Time to diet?
BY KEREN BLANKFELD

SPORTSMONEY

176 | PROFITS ON THE PITCH
Valuing the world's 20 richest soccer teams.
BY MICHAEL K. OZANIAN

180 | HIGHEST-PAID SOCCER PLAYERS
Beckham bends it first.
BY KURT BADENHAUSEN

184 | THOUGHTS
On the business of monumental screwups.